

What to look for in a Travel ERP

Easily Pluggable into Your Existing Infrastructure

It should be easy to integrate into your existing website and third-party systems such as your Accounting System and CRM

Multi-Currency & Multilingual

It should support multilingual portals and also be able to display rates multiple currencies depending on the region

Strong Back-Office Management

It should automate routine tasks and allow you to manage everything on a single platform. It should also allow you to easily create complex quotes containing multiple components to get more done with fewer staff

Customer Management

It should provide a seamless user experience and support payments from customers in cash/cheque & even allow them to book now and pay later. It should also allow customer class-wise markups and special deals & discounts to promote loyalty

Customization & Scalability

It should be customizable to your needs, which is particularly important for larger companies that generally do not want an out-of-the-box type solution. It should also allow room for expansion to help you keep up with the growth of your business
